Although it will be warmer compared to this past weekend, temperatures will remain below normal through the rest of this week with highs mainly in the 40s.

Cold but not as Cold Tonight

COLD

Clear skies and light winds will allow temperatures to drop into the 15 to 20 degree range again tonight.

The coldest readings will likely be in areas where there is still ice and snow remaining on the ground.

ICY

Any meltwater from today on area roads will re-freeze after sunset and continue to make road conditions hazardous.
