Hazardous Weather

Low relative humidity today combined with the Severe to Exceptional Drought conditions will keep an elevated Wildfire weather-threat in place through this afternoon.

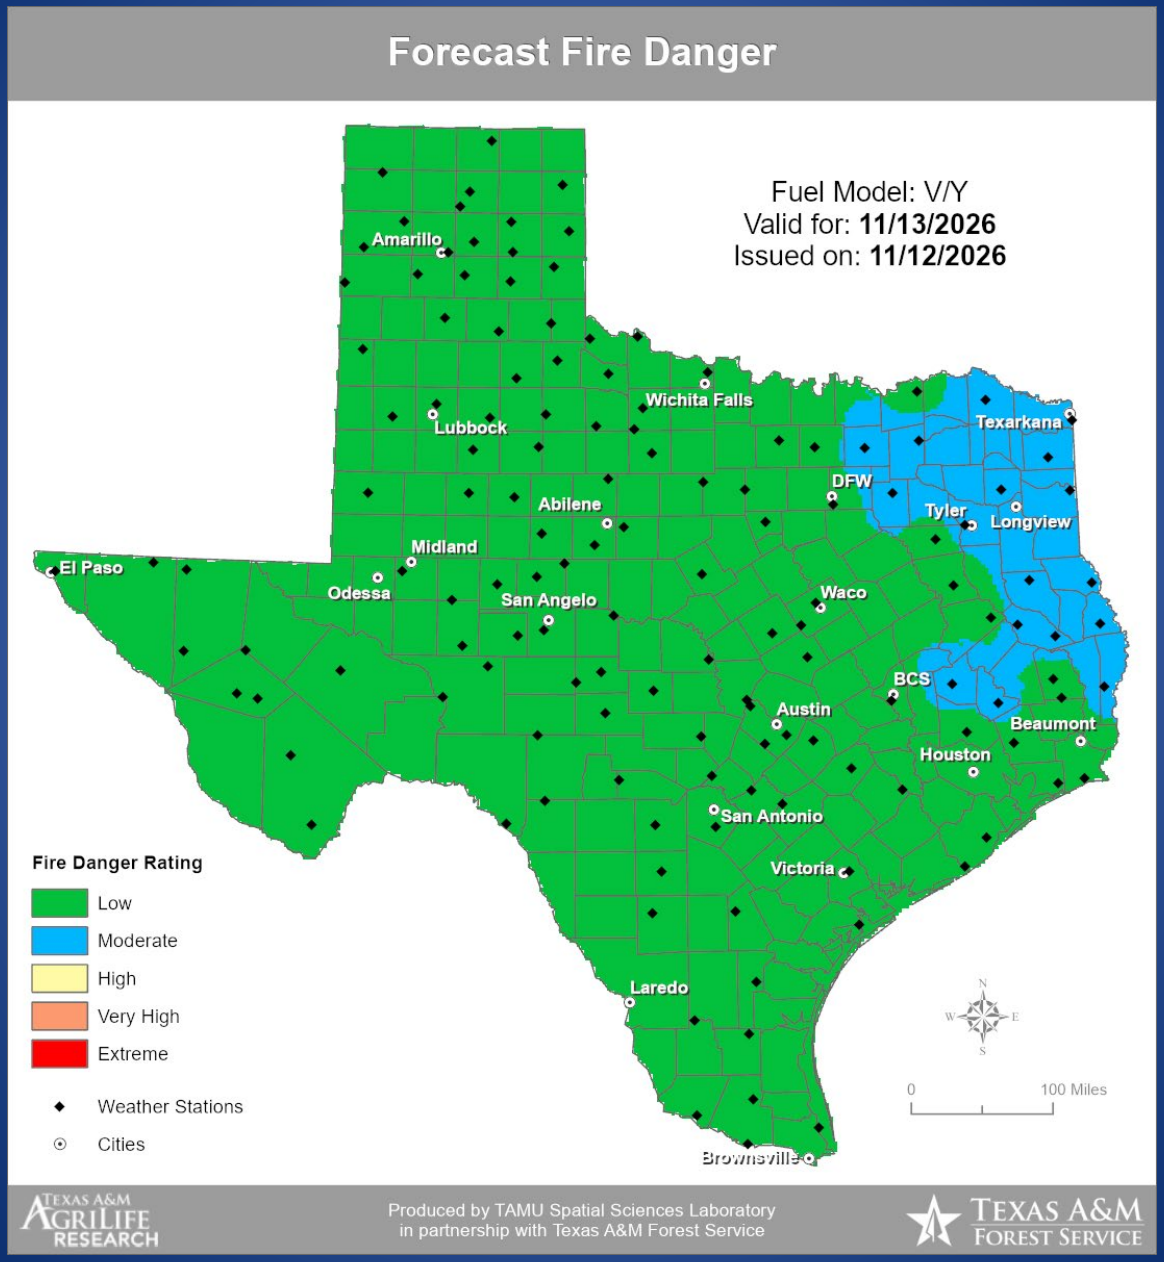

Rain chances will increase from west to east over our area Friday evening through early Saturday morning ahead of an approaching upper level system. Rain showers may linger over eastern portions of our region into the day Saturday. Locally heavy rainfall may result in minor flooding or ponding of water in urban and low lying areas, but the overall risk of flash flooding remains very limited.
